

Tolerance and Inclusivity

SJMUNC is a safe and fun conference for delegates to participate in, learn, and improve their skills. A lot of the happenings during several committees at SJMUNC XXXVIII will provoke debate regarding contentious and unsettling topics, as we are addressing numerous sensitive issues and political matters. At SJMUNC, we tolerate all political beliefs, religious traditions, and ideas. We commit to upholding a standard that each delegate should be treated with kindness and respect throughout the day. We do not tolerate any form of discrimination or harassment. Your position does not excuse disrespect. No matter a delegate's position, one is never permitted to put down others for their beliefs just because it is their country/group/character's position. Even though you may be a character for a day, you are, more importantly, a human being. Furthermore, the names of the political figures in your committee may originate from different cultures and languages. Please be cognizant of those around you and tolerant of the cultural differences of both the delegate and their character. We kindly request that you take the time to learn and correctly pronounce your position's name, and we will not tolerate any mockery towards others' names. You will be amongst delegates of all genders, sexualities, races, nationalities, and backgrounds. We expect our attendees to maintain the utmost respect for those different from themselves. Model UN is intended to promote collaboration between people and cultures. Therefore, please do not intentionally do anything to disrupt the environment of inclusivity.
